

50 MOST INFLUENTIAL WOMEN

Rhonda Forsyth
John C. Lincoln Health Network
President and CEO

With two decades of experience in health care, Forsyth leads the John C. Lincoln Health Network's two hospitals, physician practices and community services programs.

Her hope for her professional legacy: "A leader who guided our Network to thrive in a new era of healthcare."

Her hope for her personal legacy: "As someone with a full and wonderful life, a great family and meaningful work."

Stephanie Gorman
Cigna Medical Group
President and general manager

Gorman oversees sales, business development, and product/service innovation throughout Arizona, and works to enhance healthcare quality, access, and affordability.

Her hope for her professional legacy: "Passionate about people as a coach, boss, team player, and student of my customers."

Her hope for her personal legacy: "Outgoing and trusted friend with a love for the network of great people in my life."

Sharon Harper
Plaza Companies
Co-founder, president and CEO

Harper is a Trustee of the Piper Charitable Trust, Arizona Community Foundation, GPEC and GPL.

Her hope for her professional legacy: "The one who the community, business associates and employees can always count on."

Her hope for her personal legacy: "To be a hero in the eyes of my children."

Sherry Henry
Arizona Office of Tourism
Director

Henry oversees marketing efforts promoting Arizona as a premier destination to global visitors, increasing travel and tourism's statewide economic benefits.

Her hope for her professional legacy: "For inspiring others to dream big, set goals and exceed expectations."

Her hope for her personal legacy: "For being optimistic, passionate, honest, determined, and always willing to help a friend."

Pam Gaber
Gabriel's Angels
Founder and CEO

Gaber founded Gabriel's Angels, a nonprofit organization, in 2000. The child welfare organization provides pet therapy to abused and at-risk children.

Her hope for her professional legacy: "Gabriel's Angels was run like a great business while meeting our mission."

Her hope for her personal legacy: "I genuinely cared about the abused, neglected and at-risk children in my community."

